

Biography

Craig C. Freudenrich, Ph.D

Craig C. Freudenrich, Ph.D earned a Bachelor's degree in Biology from West Virginia University and a Doctorate in Physiology from the University of Pittsburgh, School of Medicine. He has 20 years of experience in biomedical research, 10 years of science teaching, and 7 years of science writing experience. He has taught Astrobiology, Science of Science Fiction, and Science of Project Apollo to gifted and talented high school students. As a former Senior Editor (Science, Medicine, and the Human Body) for HowStuffWorks, he has written many articles on the human body and other science topics. He is currently a freelance science writer and science consultant in Durham, NC.