

Biography

Jessica L. Martin, BSc

Ms. Martin earned a bachelor's degree in genetics from Clemson University, graduating magna cum laude. She is currently completing her PhD at the University of Minnesota in the department of pharmacology, where she researches the molecular mechanisms of the transmission of HIV-1 and related viruses. Ms. Martin is an independent medical writer and owner of Martin Medical Writing, working out of Saint Paul, Minnesota. She focuses on continuing medical education, needs assessments, news article for healthcare professional audiences, and slide decks. She is a member of the American Medical Writers Association (AMWA) and is involved in her local chapter. Ms. Martin is also a member of the Association for the Society of Virology.